Nadia Caidi
Tuesday, 25 January 2005
Last Updated Friday, 28 January 2005

Nadia Caidi is currently Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Information Studies. Her research interests include information policy and social/community informatics. One of her current research projects on "Framing 'Information' and 'Access' Post 9/11" has been awarded a three-year grant (2004-2007) from SSHRC. Recent publications have appeared in "The Information Society Journal", "Library Quarterly" and "Library and Information Science Research". Dr. Caidi holds a Masters in Communications from the University Grenoble 3 (France) and a MLIS and Ph.D. in Information Studies from the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA).